News and Views makes faculty members aware of information and opinion reported by the news media pertaining to higher education. The items used are not intended to reflect any position by Information Services. The editorial reprinted below appeared in the August 23 issue of the Minneapolis Tribune.

Too many higher-education institutions?

The Commission on Minnesota's Future made some points worth considering in its report this week on the state's post-secondary educational institutions. Fifty-seven of the state's 62 public post-secondary institutions — including the state universities, community colleges and area vocational-technical institutes—are below the minimum enrollment size recommended by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, the report noted. Costs per student are higher in small institutions. Buildings aren't being used to their maximum potential; state and community college facilities, for instance, are in use less than 20 percent of the 44-hour academic week. And population trends, indicating further declines in enrollments that have already dropped, will make things worse, the report said.

The commission concluded that some institutions should be closed or consolidated. And it recommended that Gov. Anderson name a committee to study the consolidation question and make specific proposals to the 1977 Legislature. Such a committee sounds like a good idea—not necessarily to recommend closing or consolidating any institutions, but simply to take a look at Minnesota's entire public post-secondary system to see whether it could be used better. If that look leads the committee to call for closings or consolidations, fine. But it would seem better if such a group were not to begin its work with that as a foregone conclusion.

A committee might find, for example, that there are reasons—geography could be one—why Minnesota might wish to maintain smaller institutions in outlying parts of the state. And it might consider that the "mini baby boom" predicted by the state demographer for the decade between 1980 and 1990 will later result in a significant, if temporary, upturn in enrollments for which some provisions will have to be made.

The main point a study committee should consider, however, is the growing importance of continuing education. Increasingly, educational institutions are recognizing that adults returning to school from time to time throughout their lives will constitute a much more important part of their clientele in the years to come. Institutions—Metropolitan Community College in Minneapolis is one — that are making special efforts to serve such non-traditional students are finding the response well worth it. It may be that Minnesota's post-secondary institutions would no longer be underutilized if they'd do more to encourage the non-traditional student by making continuing education a major part of their programs.

Chancellor Stresses Coordination--Coordination among Minnesota's systems of higher education is essential "if we are to respond to the state's educational needs without unwarranted duplication of expenditures," State University System Chancellor G. Theodore Mitau said Monday (Nov. 10) at a hearing on proposed "superboard" legislation. He appeared before a joint meeting of the Senate Committee on Education and the House Subcommittee on the University and Private Colleges in St. Paul. "Any determination concerning an alternative governance structure for the higher education systems of Minnesota will have to be made by the Governor and the Legislature," Mitau said. "But the key to successful planning efforts lies in the involvement of all systems in the development, implementation and evaluation efforts." According to Mitau, the Higher Education Coordinating Commission has established "a fairly sophisticated coordination process" for the various systems of education, allowing for "flexibility and diversity." Mitau said four basic questions should be addressed by the Legislature in considering the governance of higher education. Would one board for all systems: (1) bring about the alleged economies that have been claimed for it? (2) enhance or limit program flexibility and diversity among institutions? (3) further remove decision-making from the operational level of institutions and remove citizen involvement from those decisions? (4) respond effectively to institutional size and service as it relates to regional needs and disparity in population densities? "What is of greatest importance in determining the governance of higher education is the education enterprise itself and what happens to the students in it," he concluded.

BOARD NEGOTIATING TEAM PROPOSES
1975-77 SALARY PLAN

In a negotiating session held on November 6, 1975, the State University Board negotiating team proposed a faculty salary plan for the 1975-77 biennium.

The Board's plan--recognizing that faculty are professional employees--contains the following key elements:

- retains the role of academic rank in salary administration
- establishes broad salary ranges for the ranks to reflect traditional academic diversity
- retains the concept of recognizing quality teaching and research through performance increases
- commits the Board to expending the full amounts appropriated for faculty salaries in each year of the biennium (15% in 1975-76 and 5% in 1976-77)

The Board's plan contrasts sharply with the rigid salary schedule previously proposed by the IFO/MEA. The IFO proposal declares academic rank irrelevant for salary purposes, provides flat rates of pay without regard to individual performance and calls for increase monies substantially in excess of the amounts appropriated by the 1975 Legislature.

The specific features of the plan proposed by the Board are as follows:

1975-76 SALARY RANGES

	Minimum	3rd Quartile	Maximum
Professor	16,000	21,475	23,300
Associate Professor	13,150	17,095	18,410
Assistant Professor	11,530	14,990	16,140
Instructor	8,800	12,775	14,100

1975-76 IMPLEMENTATION

The general principle underlying the proposed implementation formula is that advancement beyond the third quartile of a range should be based on professional performance. The implementation process would be as follows:

- 1) An across-the-board increase of 6% would be granted each faculty member up to the third quartile of his or her salary range.*
- 2) The cost of salary increases for summer session and other overload assignments would next be deducted from the total increase monies appropriated.
- 3) Of the balance remaining after the above two measures have been implemented:
  - up to 50% would be used for promotions and equity adjustments
  - the remainder would be used for performance increases

*For faculty whose salaries would exceed the third quartile if a 6% increase were granted, their permanent rate of pay would be advanced to the third quartile and they would receive a one-time, lump-sum payment of one-half of the amount in excess of the third quartile. Faculty members whose salaries are over the current maximum would remain at their present for 75-76, and would also be eligible for a lump-sum adjustment.

1976-77 SALARY RANGES

	Minimum	3rd Quartile	Maximum
Professor	16,320	21,905	23,765
Associate Professor	13,415	17,440	18,780
Assistant Professor	11,760	15,290	16,465
Instructor	8,975	13,030	14,380

1976-77 IMPLEMENTATION

The same basic implementation formula as used in 1975-76 would be continued:

- 1) An across-the-board increase of 2% would be granted each faculty member up to the third quartile of his or her salary range.
- 2) Steps 2 and 3 outlined above would be repeated.

With respect to state-paid hospital-medical and life insurance, the Board's position is essentially to ensure the continuation of coverages currently provided for by law. The existing insurance benefits are specified by law and apply to all state employees, and these insurance coverages and hospital-medical-major medical benefits are recognized generally as being well-balanced, comprehensive and progressive. It should be noted that several increased benefits were recently extended to the faculty by the legislature - they include:

- Effective October 1, 1975, the state will pay for an additional $5,000 term life insurance plus $5,000 accidental death coverage for employees with 5 or more years of service.
- Effective October 1, 1975, additional optional life insurance coverage for the spouse of the employee was made available.
- Effective July 1975, the state increased its contribution for dependent insurance coverage from $10.00 per month to $20.00 per month. Effective July 1976, this amount will increase to $30.00.
- Faculty members who retire prior to age 65 and who receive an annuity under the state's retirement program are now eligible to purchase all group hospital/medical insurance coverages in effect for the employee at the state group premium rate.

Highlights of State University Board Meeting

Here are the highlights of the State University Board meeting Nov. 26 at Mankato State University:

Academic Programs Approved--The board approved a Master of Business Administration degree program at Moorhead State University and a Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science Developing Nations Minor program at Mankato State University. In addition, the board was informed of four new programs approved by the chancellor; Humanities Minor at Mankato, Computer Science Major at Moorhead, Aviation Technology Minor at St. Cloud, and Photography Minor at Winona. Board-endorsed programs require approval by the Higher Education Coordinating Commission before they can be implemented.

President's Resignation Accepted--The resignation of Jay Jones as president of Southwest State University, effective May 31, 1976, was accepted "with regret and appreciation." Catherine Tisinger, vice president for academic affairs, was named interim president upon his departure until the end of the 1976-77 academic year.

Study Endorsed--A recommendation by the chancellor for a study of post-secondary institutions in southwestern Minnesota was endorsed. Under the proposal, the study will be conducted by the Higher Education Coordinating Commission, using consultants from outside Minnesota, to determine how the educational needs of the region might best be served.

Appeal Denied--The board denied an appeal by the Southwest State University Student Association regarding reorganization implemented by President Jones. The board determined that students' participatory rights in long-range planning had not been violated. However, the board added to its minutes the following statement by Orrin Rinke: "It is my interpretation, as chairperson of the Rules and Appeals Committee, that implicit in our decision is the understanding that students do have participatory rights in all aspects of long-range planning. Therefore, our action is based on the commitment that the rules will be upheld and that consultation and participation will occur prior to future decisions concerning curriculum and staffing."

Statement Received--The board received a statement from the president of the Southwest State University Faculty Association requesting that reorganization at that institution not be accepted "until such time as faculty and students have participated according to rules and regulations." The statement also requested that the board go on record affirming that rules and regulations are limiting on presidents.

Resolution Reiterated--The following resolution, adopted by the board at its Aug. 20 meeting, was reaffirmed: "In this period of transition from the existing system of governance to a new system involving collective bargaining, the authority of each president to make the necessary administrative and organizational changes to meet the ongoing needs of the university is encompassed within the delegation of managerial authority delegated to each president by the board in accordance with its rules."

Rules To Be Examined--The board passed a motion requesting its legal counsel and the chancellor's office to examine and interpret board rules regarding participatory rights of faculty and staff in long-range planning and related matters.

State University Board Meeting Highlights (continued)

Position Adopted On Educational Radio--The board adopted a resolution establishing its position on educational radio in Minnesota. The resolution reviews the regional educational mission of the state universities, points out that with the exceptions of Bemidji and Southwest the use of radio in the system has been limited to campus broadcasting, indicates that the system does not intend to develop its own statewide radio network and is receptive to cooperative planning and coordinated programming with other educational institutions, rejects the notion of relinquishing frequencies or licenses now held or transferring control or governance of existing radio stations to other organizations, expresses a willingness to work with the Governor's Task Force on Education Radio, including the possibility of upgrading radio capabilities in the system, and reaffirms the board's commitment to cooperate in efforts to coordinate educational radio services and participate, where appropriate, in a statewide network.

Campus Consolidation Supported--The board endorsed Mankato State University's proposal to consolidate its operations on the Highland Campus. The board also reaffirmed its support for the continuation of Wilson Campus School "either in its present facility or in some other."

Budget Reallocations Approved--The board approved budget reallocations for the state universities based on fall quarter enrollments. Also approved were student union budgets and expenditures for repairs and betterments.

Decision Delayed--The board delayed until its next meeting a decision on what to do with an anticipated $400,000 surplus in the systemwide dormitory account. Projected to the end of the school year, the surplus is accumulating from rate increases and higher occupancy in residence halls than had been expected. Two options under consideration are rate reductions and improvements in the halls, such as carpeting, new furniture and recreational equipment.

Fee Structure Under Study--A Student Task Force on Fees, composed of student representatives from each state university and five administrators, is examining the fee structure and will make recommendations at the next board meeting.

Capital Improvements Report--The board heard a report on systemwide capital improvement requests to be made to the 1976 Legislature. The Education Division of the House Appropriations Committee has visited most of the campuses to inspect facilities and hear building requests. Appropriations exceeding $28 million are being requested to finance a total of nine buildings at Bemidji, Mankato, Moorhead, Winona and St. Cloud.

Reciprocity Agreement Ratified--The board ratified a 1975-76 reciprocity agreement enabling Minnesota residents to pay in-state tuition at North Dakota public colleges and universities and for North Dakota residents to pay in-state tuition at similar institutions in Minnesota.

Collective Bargaining Reviewed--The board was informed that its negotiating team has conducted eight collective bargaining sessions with negotiators representing the IFO/MEA faculty bargaining unit and that four more sessions are scheduled in December. Bargaining also has begun with negotiators for the administrative/service faculty unit.

Next Meeting--The board's next regular meeting will be Jan. 26-27 at Metropolitan State University.

Chancellor Submits Resignation--Chancellor G. Theodore Mitau has announced his resignation after eight years as head of the State University System to return to teaching and writing. The announcement was made Monday (Jan. 26) at a meeting of the State University Board in Bloomington. Board President Frank Chesley, who also had been president of the Board at the time of Mitau's appointment, said he reluctantly accepted Mitau's decision to step aside as chancellor. The Board accepted Mitau's resignation, effective September 1, and named him a Systemwide Distinguished Service Professor of public policy and administration, a position established under a policy adopted by the Board in 1973. The Board also took action to initiate a search for Mitau's successor and accepted Chesley's recommendation for an eight-person search committee chaired by Board member Mary Phillips, St. Paul. Chesley proposed that the Board make its selection in May "so that the new Chancellor can participate in the development of the System's 1977-79 budget request to the Legislature." The chancellor search committee, recommended by Chesley, includes four Board members and four university representatives. The Board members in addition to Phillips are: Kennon Rothchild, Mahtomedi; Arnold Anderson, Montevideo; and Chesley, Red Wing. Other appointees include: Douglas Ralston, Mankato State University, president of Inter-Faculty Organization; Ida Mae Geittmann, Bemidji State University, president of the Association of Administrative and Service Faculty; Jerene Herzing, SCSU, president of the Minnesota State University Student Association; and a state university president to be recommended by the presidents of the seven state universities. The Board will take official action on the search committee membership at a special meeting. Before becoming chancellor in 1968, Mitau was chairman of the political science department at Macalester College. He is the author of six books on constitutional law and state and local government.

Improvements Planned for Basketball Tournament--Men's Athletic Director Rod Anfenson has accepted an offer by two St. Cloud business leaders to underwrite SCSU's annual invitational basketball tournament. William Holes, president of Holes-Webway Company, and Donald Watkins, president of Tanner Systems, Inc., and O'Malley AMC-Buick, Inc., have agreed to accept financial responsibility for the tournament, which is scheduled each December between Christmas and New Year's at Halenbeck Hall. Under the plan, tournament proceeds will go to the men's athletic program. Holes and Watkins will cover any deficits that might be incurred. In past years the tournament has been the sole responsibility of the men's athletic department. Now the department will continue to exercise management and control while Holes and Watkins take an active role in promotion, ticket sales and community involvement. "The financial demands had become so heavy that we were faced with the prospect of reducing or eliminating the tournament," Anfenson said. "We are pleased and excited by this opportunity. The possibilities for improvement are enhanced by the involvement of Bill Holes and Don Watkins, who have long been active supporters of our athletic programs." Anfenson pointed out that the Pillsbury Classic and the Lutheran Brotherhood tournaments, both in Minneapolis, are examples of collegiate basketball tournaments that have benefitted from the support of business and industry. The St. Cloud tournament, which started in 1965 as the Granite City Classic, includes eight national collegiate teams and six Minnesota high school teams. In recognition of the benefactors under the new financial arrangement, the name will be changed to the Holes-Watkins Classic, Anfenson said. "Our companies welcome the challenge of helping to improve this tournament," Holes commented. "With the support of the St. Cloud community, we hope to build the tournament into one of the finest basketball attractions in this part of the nation," Watkins added: "By underwriting the tournament our companies are taking the financial pressure off the men's athletic department. Now the department can concentrate on programming and arrangements." Holes and Watkins are members of the SCSU President's Club and Husky Hustlers. Both have received service awards from the university's Alumni Association.

University Senate Meets Today--The University Senate will meet at 3 p.m. today in the Civic-Penney Room in Atwood Center.

Highlights of State University Board Meeting

Here are the highlights of the State University Board meeting Jan. 27 at the Mariott Inn in Bloomington:

Chancellor Search Committee Established--The Board accepted Chancellor G. Theodore Mitau's resignation, effective Sept. 1, and President Frank Chesley's recommendation that an eight-member search committee be established. (Details reported in Jan. 27 Faculty News.) President Roland Dille, Moorhead, was chosen by the seven state university presidents as their representative on the committee. Committee chairperson Mary Phillips announced that President David Sweet, Metropolitan, will be the committee's executive secretary. In a joint statement, the seven presidents indicated that none of them would be a candidate for the chancellor's position. They called for a national search for candidates with exceptional administrative skills and intellectual leadership abilities. They also commented that the salary for the new chancellor "must be set at a level commensurate with the responsibilities" of the office. The presidents expressed strong support for the Board's decision to appoint Mitau a Systemwide Distinguished Service Professor of public policy and administration. The Board will hold a special meeting Feb. 17 in St. Paul to act on a new internal rule that spells out the chancellor search procedure.

Capital Improvement Program Adopted--The Board adopted a program of capital improvements for the system totaling $32.7 million, including $23.7 million in the "essential" category. However, among the "essential" projects, the Board separated an $8.7 million package of three buildings needed to consolidate the Mankato campus. Included in its list of "essential" projects are a $4.2 million addition to Halenbeck Hall, a $600,000 maintenance building and $162,000 in land acquisition for St. Cloud, and $275,000 for remodeling of Stewart Hall Auditorium. These requests will be presented to the 1976 Legislature.

Residence Hall Improvements Planned--The Board approved the expenditure of $300,000 for repairs and betterments in residence halls, including $71,400 at St. Cloud. In addition, the Board authorized the use of a $400,000 surplus in the systemwide dormitory account to improve the "quality of life" in residence halls. A detailed proposal for the $400,000 renovation program, which will include projects on all six campuses, will be presented to the Board at its meeting March 17-18 in St. Cloud.

Transfer Problems Discussed--Emily Hannah, associate vice chancellor for academic affairs, presented a paper summarizing systemwide problems concerning transfer of credits. She recommended two broad approaches to help resolve the problems: clarify differences between the missions of post-secondary institutions and clarify current practices and procedures used in evaluating and accepting transfer students. The Board agreed that transfer problems are serious and that efforts must be continued to resolve them.

Planning Process Report Accepted--The Board heard and accepted a report from Catherine Tisinger, vice president for academic affairs, concerning the planning process at Southwest.

Campus Visits To Be Arranged--In response to a request for more interaction between students and Board members, the Board asked the presidents and Board office to propose a schedule for campus visits by Board members separate from Board meetings during the 1976-77 academic year.

Summer Fees Set--The Board allowed three universities--Mankato, Moorhead and St. Cloud--to set their 1976 summer fees at $2.50 per credit hour.

Reciprocity Agreement Renewed--The Board renewed for 1976-77 a reciprocity agreement whereby Minnesota and Wisconsin students can attend public higher education institutions in either state at resident tuition rates.

Liability Questions Raised--After discussing the personal liability of its members under current interpretations of the law, the Board asked its legal counsel to determine whether new legislation is needed.

Feb. 24 Evening Classes Authorized--The Board authorized the presidents to require evening classes Feb. 24 if necessary to meet contractual obligations. A bill passed by the 1975 Legislature prohibits the state universities from scheduling events after 7 p.m. on the day of a political party precinct caucus. Caucuses this year will be Feb. 24.

Non-Payment Policy Revised--A Systemwide policy authorizing the universities to deny students further registration until "all monies due the university have been paid" was amended to read: "except where an obligation has been discharged in a bankruptcy proceeding."

Labor Counsel Reports--Joe Flynn, the Board's chief counsel for labor relations, reported that a "crucial point" had been reached in negotiations with faculty bargaining unit representatives. He estimated that the two parties were nearly $12.5 million apart in base salary proposals for the 1975-77 biennial and more than $17.3 million apart in other direct costs. He said any contractual agreement reached must be approved by the Legislature before it can be implemented. If the current Legislature adjourns before a contract is presented for its approval, the plan cannot be considered again until 1977, unless the current law is changed, he added. Flynn indicated that if considerable progress is not made in the next few negotiating sessions, help will be requested from the Bureau of Mediation Services. However, he expressed "cautious optimism" that the two sides will soon reach agreement on basic issues. A similar situation exists in negotiations with administrative and service faculty, he added.

SCSU Seeks $6.6 Million From 1976 Legislature--SCSU is seeking approval from the 1976 Legislature for an addition to Halenbeck Hall and other capital improvements totaling $6.6 million.

In a report prepared for the Education Division of the House Appropriations Committee, President Charles J. Graham said more facilities are needed because SCSU's enrollment "comes from counties in Minnesota which show major increases in potential college students." A total of 9,324 students were on the campus last fall. Increases are projected until 1981, when the number of on-campus students is expected to stabilize at about 9,800. Last fall's total enrollment, including off-campus students, was 11,123, a record high for the university.

Projects requested by the university, in order of priority, and estimated costs are: 1) purchase of property south of the campus owned by Northern States Power Company, $162,000; 2) addition to Halenbeck Hall, $4,184,000; 3) addition to Maintenance Building, $600,000; 4) remodeling Stewart Hall Auditorium, $275,000; 5) removal of architectural barriers, $55,000; 6) outdoor physical education facilities, $110,000; 7) site development, $200,000; and 8) ice arena, $1,046,000. The projects were recommended by the Campus Planning Committee, a unit of the University Senate which includes representation from the faculty, administration, professional support personnel and student body.

The NSP property consists of 12 acres of land along the Mississippi River which could be developed into recreational space for students and a parking area for students' cars. "We do not have any open recreation fields on our campus," Graham said. "Our students use city parks. We should provide some space for them."

Halenbeck Hall, the 10-year-old physical education building, is so heavily used that a major addition is needed to provide more indoor facilities, he said. The proposed addition would include an indoor track, handball courts, wrestling room, laboratory space for human physiology, women's locker rooms and faculty office space. "The Minnesota state universities analyze space needs according to a formula," Graham said. "Applying that formula, we have a shortage of 18,761 square feet." Graham also said Eastman Hall does not meet present recreational needs and should be converted to some other use if Halenbeck Hall is expanded. A growing interest in sports and recreation, particularly on the part of women students, has increased the pressures on Halenbeck Hall in recent years, he observed. "The long winters compound space problems for indoor student recreation. In order to get spring sports started we need a large open area under cover for practice sessions," he said. St. Cloud now has the largest on-campus full-time equivalent enrollment in the State University System, he noted. "Yet we have the lowest gross square footage of recreational space per on-campus FTE student in the system."

Graham said the Maintenance Building is needed because the existing structure is too small. The proposed addition would provide 20,000 square feet of space for storage, vehicle maintenance and employee rest rooms and locker rooms. The project would include some remodeling of the original building.

"Stewart Hall Auditorium is the only large auditorium on the campus," the president noted. "It is badly in need of improvements. At present, we have no large auditorium acoustically suitable for concerts."

Funds also are needed to provide ramp entries into buildings for physically handicapped students, Graham said.

Property owned by the university south of Halenbeck Hall should be developed for open recreation, such as hockey and soccer fields and softball diamonds, he added. Site development funds are requested to complete a campus landscaping project around the Administrative Services Building.

If funded, the ice arena would be included in the Halenbeck Hall addition. The university has no indoor ice facility.

Thief Attracted To Universities--The FBI is searching for an unknown subject who apparently enters college buildings to steal blank checks and deposit slips from a victim's coat pocket, purse or desk. The thief has been involved in the scheme almost daily for the past three years, according to the FBI. He takes the stolen checks and deposits several forged checks which were stolen from previous victims, receiving several hundred dollars back in cash. SCSU faculty and staff members have reported being victimized by a thief like the suspect wanted by the FBI. The SCSU faculty member had checks and deposit slips stolen in early January during the week before classes resumed. The professional support personnel member had checks taken on a graduation day over 18 months ago. The thief has been described by the FBI as a white male in his mid-forties, 5'11", of medium weight and with dark greying hair. Faculty and staff are urged to keep their purses and check books in a secure place, according to Cris Kelley, assistant to the vice president for Administrative Affairs.

Highlights of the State University Board Meeting--The quarterly State University Board meeting was held on the St. Cloud campus, March 18. Following are the highlights of the meeting:

Residence Halls Improvements Planned--The Board approved the expenditure of $400,000 to improve the "quality of life" in state university residence halls. St. Cloud will receive $102,655 of the allocation. Major projects for St. Cloud residence halls will include replacing carpet in Benton Hall, placing bunking devices in Sherburne Hall, carpeting the lounge in Mitchell Hall and improving furniture in lounge and activity rooms in various residence halls. The $400,000 surplus resulted from an increase in residence hall occupancy this academic year.

Information and Service Center Planned--The plan for a State Universities' Information and Service Center in the metropolitan area was outlined to the Board. The center, which will begin operations next fall, will provide information and guidance to prospective students, parents and counselors on academic programs, financial aid opportunities, admissions procedures and campus visits. The annual budget for the center is tentatively set at $100,000.

Southwest Interim President Effective April 19--The Board accepted Southwest State President Jones' recommendation that the transition from his administration to that of Dr. Catherine Tisinger's, as Interim President, become effective April 19. Dr. Jones will be on assignments determined by the Chancellor between April 19 and May 31, the effective date of his resignation from the System.

Residence Hall Rates/Meal Plan Approved--The Board accepted the Food Service Task Force recommendation to offer students a 20/21 meal plan only. Room and Board rates will remain constant, with "favorable occupancy absorbing any cost increase" which may result from food service contracts.

Schools May Assess Student Fees--The Board approved the Student Fees Task Force report recommending that each campus determine its own fee structure under limits prescribed by law. A hearing on an Internal Rule allowing such a process will be held during the May State University Board meeting.

Progress Reported on Chancellor Search--Chancellor Search Committee chairperson Mary Phillips stated that approximately 180 people have been nominated or have applied for the position of Chancellor. The committee will hold a meeting March 26 at 10 a.m. at Metropolitan State University to consider applicants. The meeting is open to the public.

Southwest Staffing Plan Presented--Dr. Catherine Tisinger, vice president for academic affairs, presented a report outlining the procedures followed thus far in the development of a staffing plan for Southwest State University. In lieu of newly negotiated agreements with the faculty unit, a meet and confer session will be held on campus within the next two weeks with the faculty unit for input into the development of a staffing plan.

Transfer Problems Discussed--Dr. Emily Hannah, associate vice chancellor for academic affairs, presented the second status report concerning the transfer of credits within the State University System and also among institutions throughout the state. She indicated that Representative Jim Pehler has introduced a bill in the Minnesota Legislature designed to encourage all higher educational institutions in the State to grant comparable credit for comparable work.

Faculty News--2

Board Campus Visitation Plan Set--The Board accepted a series of recommendations on visiting university campuses to provide additional opportunities for students to meet informally with its members. Each campus may establish a "Board Day" during the academic year and invite members of the Board for special activities to acquaint members with campus programs, problems and people.

Management Salary Plan Proposal Deferred--A proposed management salary plan for those administrators excluded from a bargaining unit was deferred for later consideration. A Task Force comprised of Board members Kennon Rothchild, Thomas Coughlan and Orrin Rinke along with one president, one vice president, one dean, and a member of the Chancellor's staff will be established to present another draft of a management salary plan to the Board for consideration for the 1977-79 biennium. Lance Teachworth, State University System personnel director, will staff the group.

"People Power" Request Search Committee--The Board heard comments from representatives of the Southwest "People Power" committee requesting that a presidential search committee be established by June 1, 1976 to find a replacement for Dr. Jay Jones, who has resigned as Southwest State president, effective May 31. "We feel the insitution should have a permanent President and an Academic Vice President in order to function properly and smoothly." (Dr. Tisinger has been named Interim President for Southwest State University, effective April 19). "The mere use of the term 'interim' has conveyed to many present students and to future students, that once the study is completed, the school may close." The Board passed a resolution directing Chancellor Mitau to prepare a presidential search plan for Southwest and to present it to the November meeting of the State University Board.

Rule Repeal Procedures Established--The Board approved procedures established for repealing governing rules which are in conflict with newly negotiated agreements. Repeal or modification of the rules are necessary in order to implement the contracts recently negotiated with the Minnesota State University Association of Administrative and Service Faculty and the Inter-Faculty Organization/Minnesota Education Association.

Next Meeting--The board's next regular meeting will be May 18-19 in St. Paul.

The undergraduate program in the College of Business was accredited Thursday (April 27) by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB). President Charles J. Graham, Dean James Marmas (College of Business) and LaVerne Cox (Management and Finance chairperson) received word of the accreditation in Atlanta, GA, at the AACSB convention. President Graham noted: "The accreditation of the undergraduate program is a significant step forward by St. Cloud State University. It recognizes the educational quality of the institution and the academic excellence of our faculty. Dean Marmas, his faculty and staff deserve a great deal of credit for their dedicated efforts which have culminated in this important action." St. Cloud, Minnesota 56301
(612) 255-2122

June, 1976

To Students and Parents:

More than 80 workshops and short courses and an educational family vacation plan highlight summer activities for St. Cloud State University.

For the first time, St. Cloud will be offering a special vacation plan for families, individuals, commuters or residents. University Summer 76 (US 76), a combination arts and recreation program, has been designed for all age groups wanting a relaxing, yet stimulating, summer.

Through US 76, participants may work on individual projects and receive professional guidance from faculty qualified in ballroom dancing, weaving, band, ceramics, drama, film-making, painting, creative writing and many other fine arts activities.

Back-packing, canoeing, golf, hiking, swimming, handball, badminton and tennis are only a few of the recreational programs available to US 76 participants who may live on or off-campus. Junior and senior high school men and women can participate in special instructional leagues in basketball and volleyball.

Sponsored by the College of Fine Arts and the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, US 76 will be open June 13 through August 14. Persons can register for as many courses and weeks as they choose.

If you are unable to join us for University Summer 76, perhaps you will be able to take advantage of the wide variety of short courses, workshops and regular classes available both days and evenings.

Here is just a sampling of special summer course offerings: "Women's Literature," "Defensive Driving," "Raku Workshop," "Writers of the Upper Midwest," "Aviation Education Workshop," "Issues in Aging," "Managerial Accounting," and "Aquatic Insects."

A seven-day journey into the Boundary Waters Canoe Area will serve as training grounds for an "Advanced Canoe-Wilderness Journey" class. Camping, canoeing, portaging, compass and map reading, fishing, first aid and hiking will be the main activities for this group.

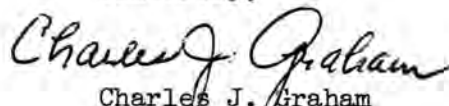

A workshop in "Animal Life at the Sherburne National Wildlife Refuge" and short courses in microbiology, ichthyology, and limnology will keep students active in the great outdoors.

Housing accommodations are available on the campus for married couples and families as well as for individual students. Nearly all classes and labs are scheduled in air-conditioned buildings.

The two five-week summer terms will be conducted from June 7-July 9 and from July 12-August 13. More information about this year's summer program may be obtained by writing to the Academic Affairs Office or by telephoning 255-3143 during office hours.

Whatever your summer plans happen to be, I hope your experiences are pleasant and fulfilling.

Sincerely,

University's Business College Rates Top National Accreditation

The College of Business at St. Cloud State University was accredited April 27 by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. (AACSB).

"Accreditation is recognized by business, industry and government organizations as the mark of a quality program," said James Marmas, the college dean.

The accreditation places the college among 160 business schools so honored—out of 750 schools in the country. St. Cloud is the second school in Minnesota to become accredited; the University of Minnesota is the other institution.

The AACSB is recognized by the National Commission of Accrediting as the sole accrediting agency for bachelor's and master's degree programs in business and administration. Schools accredited by the assembly award nearly two thirds of the nation's bachelor's degrees, over three-fourths of the master's degrees and nearly all of the doctorates.

An assembly accreditation team reviewed SCSU's business college over a 10-year period. Criteria for accreditation included faculty preparation, curriculum, building, library resources, educational innovations, computer facilities, high admission requirements and placement of graduates.

Guest Kung Fu Master Teaches Ancient Chinese Martial Art

Dr. Ed Ho-Chang Pao demonstrates a Kung Fu stance during his class in the Chinese martial art at St. Cloud State University. Dr. Pao heads a 41-member staff in physical education at the University of Taiwan, Republic of China. He taught at St. Cloud during a spring quarter leave of absence from his university.

St. Cloud State University had a resident Kung Fu master from Twaiwan on campus spring quarter, teaching students the ancient Chinese martial art.

Dr. Ed Ho-Chang Pao, 65, is chairman of the physical education division at the National Taiwan University in the Republic of China. He was a guest professor in the department of health, physical education and recreation.

Kung Fu was not invented by Bruce Lee or David Carradine Pao assured his students. The form used by Carradine in the TV series goes back to the fourth century, when a Buddhist monk taught temple priests in north central China the art of self defense.

Pao taught a variation of Kung Fu called "Tai Chi Chuan" or "the supreme boxing," designed to improve circulation of a person's "chi," or energy.

In fact, Kung Fu, as practiced by Carradine, was not widely known or practiced by the Chinese until the TV and film craze. Since then, Kung Fu has become a household word in Taiwan and Hong Kong, Pao said.

As practiced by most Chinese today, Tai Chi Chuan is a form of exercise rather than a means of self-defense, he said.

Classic Tai Chi Chuan movements include colorful names such as "Grabbing the Bird's Tail," "Embracing the Tiger Back to Mountain," "Wild Horse Dividing Mane," and "Golden Cock Stands Alone."

Tai Chi Chuan is based on ideas in the "I Ching," or "Book of Changes," which has exerted a strong influence on Chinese thinking for more than 2,000 years, Pao said.

UNIVERSITY TO EXPAND CAMPUS, IMPROVE STEWART HALL AUDITORIUM WITH $437,000

St. Cloud State University received $437,000 for capitol improvements in appropriations from the 1975-76 Minnesota Legislature.

The university received $275,000 to remodel Stewart Hall auditorium. "Stewart Hall has the only large auditorium on the campus," said President Charles J. Graham. "It is badly in need of improvements. At present, we have no large auditorium acoustically suitable for concerts."

The legislature also approved $162,000 to purchase property south of the campus owned by Northern States Power Company.

The property consists of 12 acres of land along the Mississippi River which could be developed into recreational and parking space for students.

St. Cloud State also will share $800,000 appropriated for maintenance buildings at three state universities.

BRITISH TEACHERS OFFER WORKSHOP, HELP CELEBRATE U.S. BICENTENNIAL

Fourteen British elementary educators helped celebrate the nation's bicentennial at St. Cloud State University this April through a workshop entitled "The British in 1976."

The teachers, who hail from Sussex, England, arrived in St. Cloud April 16 and stayed through April 28.

They lived with area residents, mostly elementary school teachers, learning first-hand how Americans live and sharing English culture with their hosts.

The workshop explored England's "thematic" approach to elementary education, where skills like reading and arithmetic are taught through a unifying topic, like ecology. The course was open to 200 participants.

The British teachers visited three St. Cloud elementary schools to share teaching methods. They also spoke to education classes at SCSU.

The visit was sponsored by SCSU's college of education.

First graders at Westwood Elementary School in St. Cloud move with direction from Liz Hale, an elementary teacher from Sussex, England. Hale visited St. Cloud in April as one of 14 English educators to lead a workshop entitled "The British in 1976." The teacher's visit was sponsored by St. Cloud State University.

Castle, Spanish Center: Low-Cost Ways to Study Abroad

A 13th century castle in England and a center in Castellon, Spain, have something in common with St. Cloud State University.

Both will be new study centers for SCSU students next year.

ALNWICK CASTLE

Alnwick Castle is still the residence of the Duke of Northumberland, who will share it with about 50 students from St. Cloud.

Alnwick lies about 40 miles south of the Scottish border, near England's eastern coast.

Students will spend the academic year studying courses about British history, literature, art and contemporary affairs, taught by faculty at Alnwick College.

Cost for the program in England is estimated at $2,200, which includes room, board, tuition and transportation, according to Dr. Robert Frost, director of international studies and program development.

"For many students, one of the most attractive aspects of the programs abroad is their low cost," Frost said. Students pay little more to study overseas than they would at St. Cloud.

SPANISH STUDY CENTER

The center in Castellon, Spain, is located 35 miles from Valencia on the Mediterranean coast.

About 40 students will study at the center, which is operated by the University of Valencia. Cost of the program is about $2,400, which includes room, board, tuition and transportation.

Entering freshmen with two years of high school Spanish with a "B" average may apply. St. Cloud students with one year of college Spanish also are eligible.

UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR TO COORDINATE RESEARCH, REPORT ON SEX DISCRIMINATION

Dr. Shirley Schrader has been appointed coordinator of a federally-mandated study to report by July 1 on sex discrimination at St. Cloud State University.

Schrader is acting assistant dean of graduate studies and professor of music at the university.

Sex discrimination includes more than athletics, according to Schrader.

She also will examine university recruiting, admissions, financial aid, student rule and regulations, housing rules, health care and insurance benefits, student employment, single-sex courses and women's studies, to insure non-discrimination.

The university's Administrative Services Building was dedicated at cornerstone laying ceremonies May 5. The $2.2 million building was opened in June, 1975, and houses offices for President Charles J. Graham and other administrators.

ENGINEERS, PROFESSORS COMBINE TALENTS IN 'TRIPLE I, XL' TECHNOLOGY PROGRAM

Technology students at St. Cloud State University will have an engineer from a local industrial plant as a teacher if they major in the subject.

Such an industrial-academic marriage is called "Triple I, XL" by its creator, Dr. Robert Ryan, chairperson of the department.

The Roman numeral tag refers to "one man from one company for one quarter" (triple "I") teaching forty ("XL") hours at the university.

"The program is one in which everyone wins," Ryan said. "Students benefit from the experience brought to the classroom from professionals already working in the field," he added.

But engineers in the program, who all hold advanced degrees, claim they benefit too.

Richard Ruegamer, a participating engineer from DeZurik, taught a course entitled "Testing and Inspection of Materials" winter and spring quarters. Ruegamer is product service manager at DeZurik.

Closer contact with the university has helped companies who too often had little contact with students in the past, he claimed.

"Closer contact with the university also has reduced hiring risks substantially," said William Carlson, senior project engineer with DeZurik.

Carlson worked with Ryan about two years ago to launch the cooperative program and served on its first advisory board, beginning fall quarter, 1974.

Members of the Lake Region Chapter of the Minnesota Society of Professional Engineers (MSPE) were contacted by Ryan and Carlson. About 40 participating engineers from the area have agreed to participate in the program.

Highlights of the State University Board Meeting-- The quarterly State University Board meeting was held in St. Paul, May 18 and 19. Following are highlights of the meeting:

Hays Appointed Chancellor--Dr. Garry D. Hays, 40, was appointed chancellor of the seven state universities Tuesday at a special meeting of the State University Board. Hays, who has served as the system's vice chancellor of academic affairs since 1971, will succeed Dr. G. Theodore Mitau, who has resigned effective June 14, 1976. Hays is the first chief executive officer of a Minnesota public higher education system to be named under the state's open meeting law. The new chancellor was elected to the $32,500 a year post by the Board on an open ballot following public interviews of three candidates recommended to the Board by the Chancellor Search Committee. Hays joined the State University System as director of academic planning and curriculum development in 1971. From 1968-70 he was dean of the college at Virginia Wesleyan College, Norfolk, Virginia. He was assistant vice president for academic affairs at St. Cloud State University from 1966-68. A native of Kansas, Hays received his B.A. degree from Southwestern College, Winfield, Kansas, and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Kansas.

Mitau Requests Earlier Resignation--The Board approved changing Chancellor Mitau's effective resignation date of September 1, 1976 to June 14, 1976. In making his request, Chancellor Mitau said, "In view of the extraordinary and profound grasp of all aspects of the administration which the chancellor designate possesses, it appears to me that the earliest possible transition should be arranged." Mitau stated that he wanted to "bow out of the picture as quickly as possible in order to give the chancellor designate the fullest opportunity to become an active participant in the day-to-day management of this office."

SCSU College of Business Accreditation Recognized--The Board commended St. Cloud State University for receiving accreditation by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. President Graham presented a brief summary of the accreditation process and stated that Dr. Marmas and the faculty of the College of Business deserve a "great deal of credit" for the achievement. Dr. Hays stated that "at the base of every outstanding program is a person like Dr. Marmas." Board member Kennon Rothchild commented that he has had "excellent" accounting interns working in his office from SCSU.

Internal Rule on Student Fees Approved--A rule allowing the President of each state university to establish student fees for his/her campus annually, was approved by the Board. Under the new ruling, the presidents are to provide an annual procedure to determine the fee levels for student activities, student union program/operations, and student health services. According to Internal Rule 16, the fee schedule and assessment procedure must insure that all students registered for credit shall be subject to student fee assessment but that no student is assessed an amount in excess of $43.00 per quarter or $21.50 per summer session.

Affirmative Action Settlements--In accordance with the Administrative Procedure authorized by the Board at its March 18, 1976 meeting, final settlements have been reached with a group of faculty employees who alleged past discrimination under the equal pay provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act. Back pay for 1972-73 through 1974-75 was provided to 15 SCSU employees, totalling $12,057.58. 1975-76 salary adjustments were made for two SCSU employees.

SCSU Leads Residence Hall Occupancy--St. Cloud State University showed 99.8% occupancy in comparison figures given to the Board. Occupancy percentages at the other state universities are: Bemidji 83.4%, Mankato 62.5%, Moorhead 94.4%, Southwest 58.3%, and Winona 92.8%. Percentage figures are based on total capacity of the residence halls.

MPIRG Collection Approved--An operating policy authorizing each state university to establish a procedure for the collection of the one dollar Minnesota Public Interest Research Group fee was approved for the 1976-77 academic year.

Repair and Betterment Allocations Set--SCSU will receive $63,000 for general repairs and $80,200 for projects from the Repair and Betterment allocations for academic facilities for fiscal year 1977.

Preliminary Budgets Approved--A preliminary systemwide operating budget for residence hall, 1976-77, was approved by the Board. SCSU budget will total $1,053,171. This figure includes both expenditures and resources. A preliminary student union budget for 1976-77 shows SCSU with revenue of $562,481 and total operating expenses of $461,311.

Next Meeting--The next State University Board meeting will be August 3 and 4 in St. Paul.

President Charles J. Graham was the keynote speaker at a Conference on Resource Management in Higher Education June 27 at Wingspread, the Johnson Foundation conference center near Racine, Wisconsin. "The Evolving Management Structure in Higher Education" was Graham's topic for the meeting, which was sponsored by the College and University Personnel Association. Graham also served as a consultant June 27-28 in Nashville, Tennessee, for a Performance Funding Project planned by the Tennessee Higher Education Commission.

Noel Olson, Health, Physical Education and Recreation, has been appointed men's athletic director at SCSU effective Thursday (July 1). Olson will retain his duties as the university's head basketball coach. President Charles J. Graham said he is pleased that Olson has accepted the assignment. "Mr. Olson is an outstanding person who has the experience and personality to provide excellent leadership in this important position," he commented. Olson remarked that "following Rod Anfenson will be a very difficult task, but having worked with him as the assistant athletic director for the past six years has been a real education. Rod Anfenson has maintained SCSU's reputation for excellence in athletics through the toughest economic times, and it will be my goal to follow his sound policies." Olson has been at St. Cloud since 1969 and has been involved for many years as co-host of WJON radio's Sports-line show.

Darryl Ahnemann has been appointed director of development at SCSU by President Graham. He began his new duties Thursday (July 1). Ahnemann, 34, has been director of financial development since 1974 at Morningside College in Sioux City, Iowa. "We are fortunate to be able to fill this position at this time," Graham said. "The problems of inflation and the increasing difficulties of obtaining sufficient funding from normal appropriations make it more important than ever that we look to other sources of revenue to strengthen and maintain a quality educational program." Explaining that "the university has needs that are not met with tax dollars," Ahnemann said he plans to expand fund raising on campus, among alumni, local businesses and other groups. He also will organize a system of deferred giving, encourage bequests to the university and coordinate governmental grants.
