COLLEGE RECEIVES GRANTS FOR SCIENCE INSTITUTES

St. Cloud State College has received National Science Foundation grants to finance two five-week science institutes this summer.

A total of $48,800 was allocated for an institute for 60 junior and senior high school teachers to be directed by Dr. Harold Hopkins, biology department chairman. Scheduled for July 16-Aug. 17, the program will bring participants up to date on developments in chemistry, physics, biology and earth science.

A cooperative college-school science program for 52 high school juniors and nine high school teachers will be conducted June 11-July 13 under a $25,165 grant. Dr. Philip Youngner, physics department chairman, will be the director.

Five similar institutes have been conducted by the college in the past three years.

SECURITY SYSTEM ADOPTED

A new security system recently adopted is providing the college with the protection of a uniformed security officer, according to Howard Walton, director of physical resources. Supplied by the Pinkerton National Detective Agency, the professionally trained officers are working in cooperation with the city police department.

GOVERNING BOARD APPOINTED FOR PROPOSED COLLEGE CENTER

President George F. Budd has appointed a 14-member governing board for a proposed College Center.

The board will develop a plan for financing the building, determine staff size and qualifications and establish the program and services to be offered by the new facility.

A $5-per-quarter student fee is now being assessed to help finance the building. Additional funds will be sought from the legislature and from friends, alumni and faculty.

Board members include seven students, two alumni and five faculty members -- Mrs. Mildred Jones (chairman), Dr. Robert Zumwinkle, Dr. John Laakso, Jack White and George Ferguson.

SUMMER PROGRAM SHORTENED, SATURDAY CLASSES DROPPED

Beginning this summer, Saturday classes will be dropped and the summer program shortened by one week, according to Academic Dean Charles Balcer.

Two five-week sessions will be conducted, June 11-July 13 and July 16-Aug. 17. In previous years, the first session was six weeks long while the second lasted five weeks but included Saturday classes.

Each period will be lengthened so that students will spend the required number of hours in class.

COLLEGE SEEKS $10 MILLION TO CONTINUE BUILDING PROGRAM

St. Cloud State College has requested more than ten million dollars from the 1963 Legislature to continue a long-range building program which will accommodate 8,000 students by 1970.

In a presentation May 18 to the Legislative Building Commission, President George F. Budd asked for a new library, two classroom buildings, a college center and a broad expansion of student housing during the 1963-64 biennium.

President Budd told the commission that if present trends continue, the college's enrollment will more than double within nine years. The campus development plan calls for some 25 buildings covering about 20 city blocks by 1970.

The first two units in a dormitory complex for women are under construction. A four-story, 200-bed residence hall and an attached commons building are scheduled for completion by September. Also going up are a food service building and a two-story industry and arts building. Both will be completed by the end of the year.

A new physical education building and a maintenance building will be started during 1962-63 if Amendment No. 2 is adopted in the November election. The amendment would remove the state debt limit. A majority of votes cast in the election is required to pass the amendment, which has been endorsed by both political parties.

DEANS, CHAIRMEN APPOINTED FOR ACADEMIC REORGANIZATION

Deans and department chairmen have been appointed for St. Cloud State College's new academic organization. Under the plan, which goes into effect this fall, the former eight divisions are replaced by three schools, each with a dean responsible to the dean of academic administration.

Purpose of the change is to provide more flexibility as the college's enrollment and curriculum expand rapidly in the next few years, according to Academic Dean Charles Balcer.

"After careful study, it appeared that this pattern of organization best suited our particular needs," Dean Balcer said. "However, the success of any system hinges on the competence and cooperation of the personnel involved. I am happy with the personnel selections made and am confident we will continue to make progress under our new system."

In appointing department chairmen, effective Sept. 17, President Budd concurred in every recommendation made by the three school deans. All are one-year appointments subject to review.

The only departments for which chairmen have not yet been named are philosophy, which is a new department with four new members, business administration and business education.

The new schools, departments, deans and chairmen are:

Message from President Budd:

NEW NAMES FOR NEW BUILDINGS...
COLLEGE CENTER CAMPAIGN OPENS...
IMPORTANCE OF AMENDMENT NO. 2...

Another significant year has begun for the faculty and staff at St. Cloud State College. Accommodating a record high enrollment of more than 4,000 full-time students is a tremendous challenge. Both outstanding individual performance and cooperative teamwork will be required to accomplish the task before us.

From time to time during the year matters of concern to all faculty and staff members will be brought to your attention through this newsletter, presidential memos and faculty meetings. As an "opener" I will mention three items, all related, which should be of interest to you.

For several years the State Architect's Office has insisted that we name our new buildings. After careful deliberation, four names were submitted to the State College Board this summer and all were approved.

The science and mathematics building is now Joseph C. Brown Hall. Brown was the college's ninth president and the author of widely used textbooks in arithmetic.

Thomas J. Gray School is the new name for our campus laboratory school. While serving as the college's third president, Gray developed a model school for providing professional laboratory

Dr. Stanley Sahlstrom, director of special services, will spend the 1962-63 school year on Cyprus, where he will evaluate the island's school system under a Fulbright grant. He and his family left St. Cloud last month. They will return next summer.

SUMMER ENROLLMENT HITS RECORD HIGH

A total of 3,020 student registrations were recorded during the two 1962 summer sessions, the first time the figure has surpassed 3,000. Enrollment was 1,676 the first session and 1,344 the second session.

THREE BUILDINGS NAMED FOR FORMER PRESIDENTS

Three new buildings have been named for former presidents by action of the State College Board.

The names are: science and mathematics building -- J. C. Brown Hall; campus laboratory school -- Thomas J. Gray School; and industry and arts building -- John W. Headley Hall.

A proposed student union will carry the name of Atwood Memorial College Center because of contributions made to the college by members of the Clarence L. Atwood family.

COLLEGE ADDS CURRICULUM
IN INDUSTRIAL TECHNOLOGY

A new curriculum in industrial technology has been added at the college with the approval of the State College Board. Under the program, students may earn either a two-year associate in arts certificate or a four-year bachelor of arts degree.

The four-year degree curriculum calls for a broad industrial program and specialization in two areas, technical drawing and electronics. More specializations may be added later. Sixty-eight quarter hours of general education also will be required.

NEW FACULTY HANDBOOK PREPARED

A new 35-page Faculty Handbook prepared by Dr. Jack White, assistant to the president, will be issued on Faculty Day Sept. 17. The publication includes information on the college, community, faculty welfare and services and college regulations.

experiences for prospective teachers.

The industry and art building, still under construction, will bear the name of John W. Headley Hall. Under Dr. Headley's presidential leadership from 1947 to 1951, a general education program was included in the curriculum.

The fourth building, a proposed student union, will be known as Atwood Memorial College Center because of contributions made to the college by members of the Clarence L. Atwood family. Atwood served as the college's resident director for ten years. Both he and his wife, Mary Elizabeth, provided funds for scholarships in their wills. A son, Allen, helped establish a foundation for the college and his wife, Ferne, is a former faculty member. A daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Atwood Hamilton of Venice, Fla., has furnished the college with gifts for scholarships.

This brings us to item number two: the College Center campaign. All summer long we have been preparing materials for a fund drive this school year to raise $500,000 from alumni, faculty and friends to help pay for this much-needed addition to our campus. The financing plan for the $1,500,000 building combines three sources of revenue: one-third from student fees ($80,000 already has been collected), one-third from the 1963 State Legislature and one-third through the fund drive. This plan was adopted when it became evident that the legislature would not finance the building outright.

Nearly every college across the nation has a student union or college center to serve as the "living room" for the campus. The lack of such a facility here is a serious deficiency and creates many problems.

The fund drive opens officially at Homecoming on Oct. 6. It will continue throughout the school year, or as long as necessary. Without generous contributions of time and money from faculty and staff members, this campaign cannot succeed. Although the building we are seeking will benefit the entire service area of the college, it will be particularly useful to students, faculty and staff.

And now item three enters the picture: Amendment No. 2. Unless this vital amendment is passed by Minnesota voters in November we cannot obtain a legislative appropriation for our College Center or any other building. Amendment No. 2 is needed to clear up an outdated restriction on the power of the state to borrow funds for essential building programs -- not only for our college but for every state institution. It is not a political issue; both major political parties have endorsed it wholeheartedly. The thing to remember is that a majority of all votes cast in the Nov. 6 general election is required to pass the amendment. Persons who vote for candidates but bypass the amendment will, in effect, vote against it.

Between now and Nov. 6 please help promote the passage of this vital piece of legislation. Without it our building program will bog down and we will be unable to meet the enrollment demands facing us in the immediate future.

Enough for now. Let's get to work!

McDERMOTT RECEIVES PH.D., PROMOTION

Richard McDermott, who received a Ph.D. degree in speech pathology and audiology at the State University of Iowa in August, has been promoted from assistant professor to associate professor. The State College Board also has promoted James Pitzer from instructor to assistant professor.

Ph.D. degrees have been awarded to George Ferguson, associate professor of English, and James Jaksa, assistant professor of speech. Ferguson received his doctorate in August at the University of Illinois. His dissertation in bibliographical research was a critical edition of a play by John Fletcher entitled "The Woman's Prize" or "The Tamer Tamed". His dissertation was based on studies of the relative effectiveness of one-sided argument and various presentations of two-sided arguments.

OFFICES TO CLOSE EARLIER

Beginning in January, office hours at the college will be from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Offices will remain open either one-half hour or a full hour at noon, depending on number of employes. A majority of office employes voted for the change. Class schedules will remain the same.

HEADLEY HALL NEARING COMPLETION; FOOD BUILDING READY IN MID-MARCH

Members of the art and industrial arts departments will begin moving into Headley Hall as equipment arrives during the winter quarter, according to John Harrington, acting director of the bureau of physical resources. The building will be fully occupied by spring quarter.

Scheduled for completion by mid-March is the new food service building across from Mitchell Hall. When it is opened, Stewart Hall Cafeteria will be closed.

The "commons" unit for Hill Hall is completed and occupied, Harrington said. The office and lounge area also will serve another dormitory wing to be added later.

Construction of the college's new physical education and maintenance buildings probably will begin in mid-summer of 1963, Harrington said. Although both buildings were approved by the 1961 legislature, the state's entire $29,300,000 building program will have to be re-enacted by the 1963 session to become effective. When the last legislature approved the program, it made borrowing the money conditional on approval of constitutional amendment No. 2 in the Nov. 6 general election. The amendment passed.

Additional property must be acquired by the state before construction begins on the physical education building, which will be located south of Gray Laboratory School.

The college has requested more than $10,000,000 from the 1963 legislature to continue its long-range building program. The request includes a new library, two classroom buildings and a broad expansion of student housing.
